Government Pension Cap Act of 2016

SECTION 1. TITLE.

This measure shall be known and may be cited as "Government Pension Cap Act of 2016."

SECTION 2. STATEMENT OF FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

(a) Government has an obligation to provide essential services that protect the safety, health, welfare, and quality of life enjoyed by all Californians. State and local governments face reduction or elimination of essential services because of costly, unsustainable retirement benefits granted to government employees.

(b) Almost all of these benefits were granted without the consent of voters. Consequently, the need to empower voters to reform retirement benefits for new government employees is a matter of statewide concern.

(c) Therefore, the people hereby amend the Constitution to limit the cost of retirement benefits granted to new government employees and to empower voters to approve or reject any proposed increases in those limits.

SECTION 3. Section 23 of Article XVI of the California State Constitution is added to read as follows:

Sec. 23

(a) Government employers shall not contribute more than 11 percent of base compensation for a new employee's retirement benefits. Government employers shall not contribute more than 13 percent of base compensation for a new safety employee's retirement benefits. All other costs, including unfunded liability costs, of a new employee's retirement benefits shall be the responsibility of the employee, unless the voters of that jurisdiction establish a new limitation.

(b) Government employers shall not pay more than one-half of the total cost of retirement benefits for new government employees unless the voters of that jurisdiction have approved paying that higher proportion.

(c) Challenges to the actions of a government employer or retirement board to comply with requirements of this section may only be brought in the courts of California exercising judicial power as provided in Article VI or in the courts of the United States.

(d) Nothing in this section shall alter any provisions of a labor agreement in effect as of the effective date of this Act, but this Section shall apply to any successor labor agreement, renewal or extension entered into after the effective date of this Act. Nothing in this section shall be interpreted to amend or modify section 9 of Article I.

(e) Nothing in this section shall be interpreted to limit the ability of government employers to offer defined benefit pension plans or defined contribution plans or a combination of both plans for new employees, subject to the limitations in this section.

(f) Government employers may provide disability benefits and death benefits for new employees which are not subject to the limitations of this section.

(g) For the purpose of this section, the following definitions shall be applied:

(1) A “new government employee” or “new employee” means an employee hired by a government employer commencing on or after January 1, 2019, regardless of any prior employment status with that or any other government employer. An employee on disability leave from a government employer on January 1, 2019 shall not be considered a new employee if he or she subsequently returns to that same government employer.

(2) “Government employer” means the state, or a political subdivision of the state including, but not limited to, counties, cities, charter counties, charter cities, charter city and counties, school districts, special districts, boards, commissions, the Regents of the University of California, California State University, and agencies thereof.

(3) “Retirement benefits” includes defined benefit pension plans, defined contribution plans, retiree healthcare plan, Social Security, or any form of deferred compensation provided by government employers. “Retirement benefits” does not include death and disability benefits.

(4) A “new safety employee” means any new government employee as defined in (g) (1) who is also a police officer or sheriff duly certified in their law enforcement position, any licensed firefighter, any prison guard, or other classification the government employer finds is a high risk law enforcement or public safety position.

(5) “Base compensation” means the regular annual base pay of the individual public employee and reflective of regular base pay of similarly situated employees of the same group or class of employment for services rendered on a full-time basis during normal working hours, pursuant to publicly available pay schedules, and subject to any exclusions as defined in California Government Code Section 7422.34 as it existed on September 1, 2015.

SECTION 4. GENERAL PROVISIONS

(a) This Act is intended to be comprehensive. It is the intent of the People that in the event this Act and one or more measures relating to the same subject shall appear on the same statewide election ballot, the provisions of the other measure or measures shall be deemed to be in conflict with this Act. In the event that this Act receives a greater number of affirmative votes, the provisions of this Act shall prevail in their entirety, and all provisions of the other measure or measures shall be null and void.

(b) If any provision of this Act, or part thereof, or the applicability of any provision or part to any person or circumstances, is for any reason held to be invalid or unconstitutional, the remaining provisions and parts shall not be affected, but shall remain in full force and effect, and to this end the provisions and parts of this Act are severable. The voters hereby declare that this Act, and each portion and part, would have been adopted irrespective of whether any one or more provisions or parts are found to be invalid or unconstitutional.

(c) This Act is an exercise of the public power of the people of the State of California for the protection of the health, safety, and welfare of the people of the State of California, and shall be liberally construed to effectuate its purposes.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if the State, government agency, or any of its officials fail to defend the constitutionality of this act, following its approval by the voters, any other government employer, the proponent, or in his or her absence, any citizen of this State shall have the authority to intervene in any court action challenging the constitutionality of this act for the purpose of defending its constitutionality, whether such action is in trial court, on appeal, and on discretionary review by the Supreme Court of California and/or the Supreme Court of the United States. The fees and costs of defending the action shall be a charge on funds appropriated to the Attorney General, which shall be satisfied promptly.
